

Education with Distinctive Features

(1) Ikeda High School is a small-scale school. Making the best use of it, teachers can carefully give each student appropriate instructions.

- We have two courses: a general course for students who want to study fundamentals thoroughly, and an advanced course for students whose goal is to enter universities.
- In each English, mathematics, and Japanese class, we divide students into two small groups, providing each group with one teacher in order to give customized, attentive guidance.
- We offer a number of elective subjects to the 12th graders toward the realization of their goals.
- In addition to such classes, students can prepare for university entrance examinations, taking after-school tutoring, academic proficiency tests on campus, and mock entrance examinations off-campus for three years.
- As Saturday tutoring for the 12th graders, we have implemented the online course by Recruit, a leading company researching on universities and colleges in Japan, so as to prepare for university entrance examinations including national center test for university admissions.

(2) One aspect that distinguishes Ikeda High School from other schools is its variety of effective and motivating activities.

- Students must be in the classroom when the first bell rings at 8:35. An eight-minute “morning reading time” begins and students start reading books they choose. After that classes begin at 8:50. Morning reading time greatly helps students to concentrate on their studies at school.
- Woodblock Print Contest, a unique one-day school event that no other schools have, is held in February. Showing its cooperative spirit, each homeroom class has its own original design and works together to create one big print.
- Every student participates in one of the sports clubs or cultural clubs. Students also enjoy a school cultural festival and athletic meets. Student council plays an active role in organizing club activities and school events. Students can develop their minds and personalities through such corporation with members of a school community.
- Home Club Committee and Volunteer Club are school-wide student organizations. A lot of students take part in various volunteer activities in Ikeda Town by joining these organizations.
